

WELCOME TO VALLEY PARTNERSHIP NEW TEACHER SUMMER ACADEMY!

SAVE THE DATE!

The 2017 New Teacher Summer Academy is scheduled for Thursday, June 29!

Are you a new teacher looking for effective ways to begin your first week of school to create the best classroom environment for learning?

Come join us at the A. Glenn Hill Center (located next to the Memorial Union) on the North Dakota State University (NDSU) campus, Fargo, North Dakota, beginning at 8:30 A.M and ending at 3:30 PM.

WHO MAY ATTEND?

The New Teacher Summer Academy is open and free to all NDSU, MSUM, and VCSU graduates, as well as all new teachers in schools served by the Southeast Education Cooperative (SEEC). No teaching position necessary to attend!

Free lunch will be provided to all participants! Free materials! Free books! Prizes throughout the day!

WHY ATTEND?

The New Teacher Summer Academy is designed to engage new and experienced teachers in critical dialogues and activities of practice pertaining to instruction. These discussions and activities will directly transfer to setting up that new teacher's classroom, planning the first week of school, and learning strategies and management techniques to get teachers ready for a successful first year of teaching.

The New Teacher Summer Academy will include a panel session with middle school and high school administrators to help answer questions new teachers may have their first year of teaching.

This Academy is conducted by Valley Partnership scholars and master teachers who understand the challenges associated with today's classroom, especially setting up the first week of school.

Click on the link below to complete registration information:

https://ndstate.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_55pANk7E4lkF5pb

For questions, please send an email to: Marie.Champagne@ndsu.edu

We look forward to seeing you in June to offer great ideas for a successful first year of teaching!