CLINICAL ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, COORDINATOR OF THE CERTIFICATE IN CRITICAL CULTURAL COMPETENCE PROGRAM
POSITION IN SOCIAL WORK

POSITION TO BEGIN AUGUST 16, 2017

The University of Iowa, School of Social Work seeks a clinical assistant professor (academic year appointment) in the Iowa City Campus to coordinate the University's undergraduate Certificate in Critical Cultural Competence (CCCC) Program and to teach Discrimination, Oppression, and Diversity; Foundations of Critical Cultural Competency; and Integrative Seminar in Critical Cultural Competence. The position also involves recruiting, advising and mentoring students in the CCCC Program.

Required qualifications:

- MSW degree from a CSWE accredited program.
- A minimum of three years post-graduate level practice experience.
- Demonstrated potential for teaching courses in cultural competency, diversity, discrimination and oppression.
- Leadership or advocacy experience working with or on behalf of marginalized or oppressed groups.

Desirable qualifications include:

- Potential for professional productivity through activities that might include, but are not limited to, conference presentations, professional consultation, outreach activities, publications, or membership on state or regional boards or professional organizations.
- Five or more years post-graduate level practice experience.
- Demonstrated experience in classroom teaching or training in cultural competency, diversity, discrimination and oppression.

The School of Social Work offers programs at the B.A., M.S.W., and Ph.D. levels with faculty scholarship foci in the areas of aging, child welfare, health and mental health, and culturally competent social work practice. In addition to programs on our main Iowa City campus, we offer a BASW program in Des Moines, and MSW programs in Des Moines, Quad Cities and Sioux City. The School is committed to integrating human diversity and cultural competence in all aspects of teaching and practice.

Applicants are strongly encouraged to submit their materials immediately, as application review will begin on January 23, 2017. All materials must be submitted online at <https://jobs.uiowa.edu/jobSearch/faculty/>. Refer to requisition number #70039. Do not mail paper applications.

Please submit a curriculum vitae and/or a detailed resume and a letter of interest with your online application. The letter of interest should include a detailed description of your interest in the position, your practice and professional background relevant to the qualifications of the position, and your prior teaching and/or training experience. In addition to the online application, we ask for three professional reference letters. These letters should address your professional accomplishments, teaching experience and/or teaching potential, and other abilities relevant to the position. These letters should be sent by the referee by mail or email to the Search Committee Chair at SSW-CCCC-Search@uiowa.edu.
