

The Dr. Irving & Phyliss Snider Campus for Jewish Seniors, comprised of the Louis Brier Home and Hospital and the Weinberg Residence, announced today that David Keselman has been appointed the new Chief Executive Officer for each of the two Societies.

David brings over 20 years executive experience in health care in executive roles held in Ontario and the Northwest Territories, most recently as the Vice President, Patient Services at Stanton Territorial Health Authority in Yellowknife and prior to that, as the Executive Director of the Toronto, York, Peel, and Barrie sites of the Victorian Order of Nurses. His educational background includes a Doctor of Health Administration from the Central Michigan University, a Masters of Nursing, and Bachelor of Science in Nursing (Honours) from the University of Toronto. David has a broad background in innovation, leading clinical operations, and implementing quality initiatives. David is also a surveyor with Accreditation Canada and an Associate Instructor in both the Ryerson University School of Nursing, and the faculty of Health Studies at Athabasca University.

Arnold Abramson, Chair of the Board of Directors of the Brier said “David is the ideal candidate at this time for the organization. David’s experience will benefit Louis Brier directly in our commitment to providing quality patient care for residents. We feel that his innovative approach, enthusiasm, and leadership style will enable Louis Brier as it moves forward with both our clinical operations and our upcoming site redevelopment.” Arnold’s comments were endorsed by Sandra Bressler, Chair of the Board of Directors of the Weinberg Residence.

David was appointed after a comprehensive North American-wide recruitment by Boyden global executive search and will be on-site at the Louis Brier September 14, 2016.
