

Communication Skills Program

Targeting vocational or social success, increased independence, and transition to young adulthood.

FOR ADULTS* WITH MILD INTELLECTUAL DISABILITY

Communication skills targeted will be highly individualized, but may include “reading” and expressing body language, tone of voice, development and practice of relevant strategies and scripts for different environments and situations, safety vocabulary, social communication and more. Our team of speech-language pathologists is very experienced in working with adults with impaired executive, cognitive and/or intellectual skills.
