President's Comments

GREG CARWIE, PRESIDENT
MOBILE BAR ASSOCIATION

32 years ago, I was a senior in college unsure what I wanted to do for the rest of my life. I remember it like it was yesterday, sitting in my parents' house talking with my father for advice. I was trying to decide whether I should go into the family hardware business with the goal of taking over once my father retired, or if I should go to graduate school to obtain a MBA or law degree. Everyone that I know, almost without exception, whose family owned a business, went into the family business.

Even though my father enjoyed his 48 years in the hardware business, his mind was made up that I should become a professional. He would say "I have to open the store every day at 7:00 a.m. including Saturdays because they are the big day in retail." He was convinced that being a lawyer, or being a professional, meant that you can set your own hours. He had many attorney friends. I remember him saying "LARRY SIMS, FRANK MCRIGHT, and RANDY BUTLER can work late on weeknights and go to the Alabama football games or hunting on Saturdays, but I have to open this store." He knew his attorney friends worked extremely hard, but in his mind being a professional had prestige and flexibility. He also complained about inventory. Money is tied up in inventory. If you are an attorney, while you have overhead and expenses (especially if you handle plaintiff's cases), you don't have inventory, as your time is your inventory.

Ultimately, he encouraged me to attend law school and not go into retail mainly because he said that the big box stores like Home Depot and Lowes are making the small "mom and pop" stores antiquated. The fact that I was JUDGE DOMINICK MATRANGA'S summer bailiff during college and JUDGE TEDDY MCDERMOTT'S law clerk after law school also influenced my decision to practice law.

Years later, after I had been practicing for about 15 years, I was in a deposition with BILLY CUNNINGHAM and he said "wouldn't it be nice to own a little hardware store and have little or no stress?" I had to tell him about the years of hearing my father tell me to be an attorney. The grass really is greener on the other side, isn't it? I don't think my dad ever woke up at 3:00 a.m. worrying whether he had enough hammers and nails to sell that day, but maybe he did.

After 32 years, I "think" I made the right decision. Admittedly, there are long hours, worry and stress. But there are benefits as well. Many of us make a good living. With some exceptions, we do have the ability to schedule time out of the office to attend our children's activities, like class trips, basketball games, golf, tennis or volleyball matches. Our virtual computers and cell phones provide us access to our offices, documents, client emails and the like even when we are not there. We can work on weekends or evenings to catch up work. Some of those may not be actual benefits.

But the best thing about being a lawyer is the opportunity we have to help people in all walks of life. We are protecting our client's life and liberty and in many instances changing their lives. I don't get the sense that many business owners ever experience that sense of satisfaction. The public may not see that part of the profession but we do. That also means we get to know other lawyers who are motivated to do good work and help others as well. So, at the end of the day, the very best thing about being a lawyer is being afforded the opportunity to call all of you my friends and colleagues.

I am honored to have had the opportunity to serve as President of the MBA. I believe I'm the first President in at least 10 years whose primary practice isn't litigation. When you read the next President's Comments, JEAN POWERS will be President. I know that she will do an outstanding job serving the MBA.

Browsing the Bar... With Barbara

I know I say this every year, but I cannot believe we have reached this juncture of 2017 when it was just yesterday that we were trying to remember to write 2017 instead of 2016! But, here we are at the end of yet another year – we do, however, still have a couple of the year's most exciting events to go. The 29TH ANNUAL BENCH & BAR CONFERENCE is scheduled for December 1-3 at Marriott's Grand Hotel in Point Clear! Thus far we have 42 Judges registered to attend. Then there is the ANNUAL HOLIDAY LUNCHEON Friday, December 15 at The Admiral Hotel – Egg Nog and Wine will start off the festivities. We welcome the MBA Past Presidents, the Mobile Bar Foundation gives away lots of money, the TRI THE GULF TRIATHLON recognizes many important people for their participation in that once-a-year event; the SOUTH ALABAMA VOLUNTEER LAWYER PROGRAM honors their outstanding lawyers of the year as does LEGAL SERVICES OF ALABAMA. Then, to top off the month, there is one FINAL continuing legal education program, the SOLO/SMALL FIRM SEMINAR, immediately following the luncheon, 3.0 hrs. MCLE credits including 1.0 hr. Ethics.

All in All I would say it is a very good month for the Mobile Bar Association!

Tammy and I cannot leave 2017 without saying how much we have enjoyed working with GREG CARWIE, the MBA 2017 President. He has made our jobs much easier this year. Thanks Greg.

Next, of course, comes the CHRISTMAS holidays and then we start all over again with a fresh, New Year – 2018!

Tammy and I thank all of you for your kind words and assistance throughout the year and take this opportunity to wish each and every one a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year! Friends and Family are the true gifts of Christmas and we consider y'all part of our family!

SIGNIFICANT DECISIONS

BY DUANE GRAHAM

In a case of apparent first impression, the Supreme Court in Wilkes v. PCI Gaming Authority, No. 1151312 (Ala., September 23, 2017), held that the sovereign immunity typically allowed to the Poarch Band of Creek Indians in Alabama did not apply to tort claims asserted against the tribal defendants by non-tribal members. The plaintiffs were injured in a vehicular accident allegedly caused by an employee of the Wind Creek-Wetumpka casino. The trial court granted summary judgment based on traditional sovereign immunity principles, but after reviewing decisions of the United States Supreme Court, the Alabama Supreme Court concluded that immunity had not been extended in a tort case such as this and declined to allow it here.

In Ghee v. Usable Mutual Insurance Co., No. 1160082 (Ala., October 27, 2017), the Supreme Court held that it lacked jurisdiction over an appeal because, even though the trial court certified the order under Rule 54(b), it was by definition not a final order. The order had dismissed one of several defendants based on federal preemption grounds, but also ruled that the plaintiff had 30 days to amend the complaint to assert a claim that would withstand the preemption challenge based on the same set of operative facts. Since the trial court obviously did not view the lawsuit to be completely final as to this defendant, it was error for the trial judge to certify the order.

In a case of first impression, the Supreme Court in Ex parte Taylor, No. 1150236 (Ala., October 13, 2017), was forced to construe Ala. Code § 43-8-21, which provides that when multiple venues are possible for an estate administration, the probate court in which the first matter was filed concerning that estate continues to have jurisdiction. The trial court had ruled that a second probate court had jurisdiction of a matter concerning the estate that was first presented there rather than the original court. The Supreme Court ruled that there was nothing limiting the application of Section 43-8-21 solely to the specific matter presented in the initial filing.

Expressly adopting the United States Supreme Court's ruling in Devlin v. Scardelletti, 536 U.S. 1, 14, 122 S.Ct. 2005, 153 L.Ed.2d 27 (2002), the Alabama Supreme Court in Lawler v. Johnson, No. 1151347 (Ala., October 20, 2017), held that class members who were not named as parties and had not formally intervened in a class action could nevertheless appeal from a decision concerning a class settlement if they had objected. The Court also concluded that class members were denied due process by a scheduling order that required them to file objections to the request of class counsel for attorneys' fees before counsel was required to file the application for those fees.

In addressing several issues involving res judicata, the Court of Civil Appeals in Phillips v. Montoya, No. 2160600 (Ala. Civ. App., October 27, 2017), held that (a) a default judgment constitutes a determination on the merits for res judicata purposes; (b) even though a defendant's counterclaims were not expressly adjudicated in the prior action, entry of a default judgment in favor of the plaintiff constitutes a determination on the merits as to those claims; and (c) the defendant's prior counterclaims in district court, while now alleged to be in excess of that court's subject matter jurisdiction, did not seek a specific sum and, thus, would be deemed included within the district court's jurisdiction.

In Treadwell v. Farrow, No. 2160667 (Ala. Civ. App., October 27, 2017), the Court of Civil Appeals held that the 6-year statute of limitations for a conversion claim involving personal property located in a home that had been foreclosed did not commence running upon the foreclosure itself since the plaintiff continued to occupy the house and, thus, exerted dominion and control over the personal property in question until the time she vacated the house.

Local attorney BRANDY B. HAMBRIGHT, has been named CRIMINAL JUSTICE ACT (CJA) ATTORNEY OF THE YEAR FOR 2017. The announcement was made at a luncheon held on November 3, 2017, at the Battle House Hotel in downtown Mobile. The award is given by the UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF ALABAMA and is designed to recognize an attorney on the Court's CJA panel of attorneys who has provided outstanding legal representation to indigent federal criminal defendants and has consistently demonstrated the high ideals of professionalism and excellence expected of panel attorneys. Mrs. Hambright, who has practiced law in Mobile for 18 years, was commended for her distinguished service on the panel.

BRANDY B. HAMBRIGHT, CJA ATTORNEY OF THE YEAR
