

United Way's Official Clothing Sponsor for 2016

In a unique and exciting new partnership, The Coverall Shop has stepped forward to be United Way's official clothing sponsor for 2016. As part of their commitment to our organization, they have supplied each member of our Campaign Cabinet with a high quality Ogio golf shirt. Jeremy Jablonski, owner, commented on the partnership, "I was happy we could come up with a creative way to partner with United Way that would help their team build more awareness in the community. It's a great organization to partner with on any level, and we hope this encourages other organizations to get creative with how they can give back as well."

These shirts are also available to everyone for $40 each throughout the rest of the year. To order your shirt today, e-mail allison@caunitedway.ca.

The Coverall Shop, a long-time supporter of the Central Alberta community has expanded their business to include numerous lines of product. For more information check out their website at <http://thecoverallshop.ca/>.

United Way's 2016 Campaign Cabinet proudly model their branded Ogio golf shirts. (The lady in the black shirt is actually Toni, from The Coverall Shop.)