Three short films on the Missions of the

October 24th, 2017

6:30pm at the Downtown Aquarium

David Borus, Photographer, explorer, adventurer, world traveler, and has done 40 years of diving. He has lived in New York, Los Angeles, Tokyo, and now Florida. Publisher of Ocean Geographic USA, he has 20+ years working in finance.

He will be presenting the work of Ocean Geographic Magazine and speaking on the adventures to the Arctic, Antarctic and the Coral Triangle.

The Mission of Elysium Artists Trips are to capture the panorama, flora and fauna of these regions in a perspective no one has ever seen before. These regions are regarded as one of the most enchanting wilderness areas of our planet, yet volatile and under severe threat from the warming of the world's climate. This films promise the most awe-inspiring and stunning visual interpretation ever seen. If a picture is worth a thousand words, then the images of the Elysium Artists team shall inspire appreciation and love for these treasures and a greater awareness of the impacts of climate change.

The Ocean Geographic Magazine is a "Ocean Conservation Magazine" and is the highest quality images and stories of exploration around the globe.

If you were a fan of National Geographic and the every now and again oceanic adventure story, then you will love Ocean Geographic. Ocean Geographic is a magazine dedicated to rich stories, research, and oceanic conservation of the creatures living below the seas. Renowned underwater photographer and explorer, Michael Aw, launched the magazine and presently resides out of Sydney, Australia. David will be representing Michael in sharing more information on Ocean Geographic, their expeditions, and of course numerous videos showcasing the quality of their research and literature. David has been on numerous underwater expeditions for Ocean Geographic. This magazine is supported by an Editorial Board with names like Dr. Sylvia Earle, Howard and Michelle Hall, David Doubilet, and many others you will likely find Ocean Geographic to be one of those must subscribe to publications. We look forward to sharing the great efforts from this global magazine with our members and guests.
