

Danika & the Jeb live at Brandon Music

She's a songwriter who was almost a doctor. He's a guitar aficionado who owns and operates his own guitar instruction company. Together they form the duo Danika Holmes and Jeb Hart, a soulful combination of acoustic pop and blues that hits the heart with their blended talents. Touring throughout the US, UK and Europe, the duo gets recognition for their captivating live performances. Eddie Owen of Eddie Owen Presents watched videos and listened to the duo online in preparation of welcoming them to his Red Clay Theater venue a while back. But he says he "wasn't prepared for what they gave... LIVE." He suggests "Y'all spread the word bout them, and catch 'em when you can." You can hear Danika & the Jeb at Brandon Music on April 29 at 7:30pm.

Hailed as "a captivating singer in a truly soulful duo" by Emmy Award winning songwriter Trey Bruce, Holmes initially started as a solo artist, her songs playing on Sirius XM's Coffee House station and on 150 radio stations nationwide. Her belief is that a well written song can embody all emotions of the human existence and she articulates that beautifully with her slightly raspy yet gentle voice and truthful lyrics.

Jeb Hart can tell a story with six strings. "I've seen some of the best guitarists that rock, blues and country have to offer," says Entertainment reporter Jim Renke. "Jeb Hart can hold his own with any of them. His heart and passion are matched only by his technical skills." The multi-faceted Hart began playing music at the age of nine; shortly thereafter he began a 16 year career of guitar instruction, opening his own company Six Month Guitar. Performing with various bands, ranging in genres from blues to rock, country to big band, Hart found the partner he was looking for in Holmes.

Danika and Jeb are taking stages by storm, having opened for mainstream heavyweights such as Lyle Lovett, Dierks Bentley, Phil Vassar and others, their soulful and intoxicating sound lures in new fans daily.
