

Still Making Dreams Come True

Our friend/neighbor/fellow Pelican Point resident Carol Pierce made one of her fondest dreams come true buying the courtyard home of her dreams right here in the Greens of Pelican Point 12 years ago this month. That dream keeps getting better and better as she continues proving the Greens truly is an “Active Adult Community.”

Today Carol remains busy helping people of all ages make their own dreams come true, like the young man in the accompanying picture to whom she’s providing career advice at the DECA State Career Conference. Invited to be a judge for the third time, this year Carol served as a mentor/judge determining how well students assessed themselves in the second phase of their working toward Louisiana’s Micro-Enterprise Credential.

Much to Carol’s surprise, one of those students was Lane Hardy, the young man from Livingston Parish featured in the opening season of American Idol who made the cut to go to Hollywood. In his thank you note, Lane states, “I am so thankful for your advice about chasing my dreams...I love to have feedback from people that are familiar with what I am dealing with...”

After attending Carol’s self-publishing workshop several years ago, local Loosemoore resident Betty Robert decided the time was finally right to make her own dream come true. Carol is now editing and providing advice to Betty on how to make her book Being Loved and Loving reality. Besides publishing her own books, Carol has guided more than 25 other authors in making their own books reality by editing and designing their books and providing them publishing advice.

Carol Pierce is just one of the many Greens/Pelican Point residents making their own dreams come true while also proving that the Greens truly is an “Active Adult Community”!
