National Park & Wildlife Refuge Slideshow

Andy and Beth Greenwood, Keene NH residents, have made a hobby of capturing digital wildlife images. This passion involves local and distant opportunities to respectfully photograph nature. They have been successful at capturing a variety of wildlife images and this year marks the fifteenth year of enjoying the best hobby in the world. Andy's favorite photo subjects are brown or black bear. Beth loves to photograph foxes and any baby animals. On this presentation, the couple will take you with them on a journey from New England, through the deep South, through the desert West to California and north to Alaska.

The Greenwoods appreciate the opportunity to share their images with you.
