NAFTA UNCERTAINTY MODULE

GET READY FOR THE IMPACT OF NAFTA CHANGES

For more than 20 years, the North American free-trade agreement has tied the continent's economy together. Donald Trump promises he'll change it dramatically, and has ramped up criticism of Canada on long-standing trade issues.

Any new agreement would have dramatic implications for Canadian businesses and the flow of goods and workers between the countries. The Trump administration is thinking about updating NAFTA to reflect the digital economy, and suggests creating new provisions to address areas like intellectual property rights, regulatory practices, services, and small and medium enterprises.

The White House's Formal notice was sent to Congress on May 18 to begin negotiations for a new trade deal. The 90-day window ends on August 16.

Take control of the situation, leverage the knowledge of your team!

In a recent poll of Canadian executives, 69% say their greatest risks to their business are geopolitical and policy issues.
