From: Rev. Anne Fisher,

Going with the flow!

This past weekend, Gregg and I went to the source of the Mississippi River. It is something I have wanted to visit; so we braved the wind and the cold to stand where it all begins. I was struck how this ordinary stream grows and persists and leaves such an influence to our land. With such humble beginnings the magnitude of the Mississippi is almost incomprehensible.

As I stood there in wonder, I thought how most important things have small beginnings. I thought about the birth of God's Son. What starts out as a commonplace event, the birth of a baby, changes the world forever. The birth is not the end of itself, we know what happened at Jesus' birth sent reverberations throughout space and time. We know that God becoming one of us continues to have the power to knock us flat, and has the power to change the world. On December 3rd, Advent begins. It is like standing at the source. The beginnings are not cataclysmic but set off a mighty course that continues to make a difference. This Advent, I hope you are drawn into the living waters of our Savior Jesus Christ.

Blessings to you all, Pastor Anne
