Current Events

As May comes to an end, we are excited for June and all of the new things to come this month.

With our All About Us project, most of the children have expressed an interest in hands on science activities. In May, we have interacted in some interesting science experiences.

The children have really enjoyed the science experiences that involve baking soda and vinegar. A classroom favorite is the soap experiment. After demonstrating this experiment to the children a couple of times, they are now able to verbalize the step by step process to me with minimal assistance.

The children have really enjoyed the loose parts or tinkering stations that have been set up throughout our classroom.

Our All About Me project has been exciting and interesting to learn all about the children.

We will be ending our All About Me project in the beginning of June. Keep a look out for information for our culminating event.

Also keep a look out for information about our new project starting sometime in June.

We have always had an open door policy in Room 4 and we would love for parents to come on by and participate in our activities for the day.

In the month of June, we will be saying goodbye to Zaina and Isabell, and wish you luck in preschool. We will also be saying goodbye to Henry for the summer. Have a fun summer! We will be welcoming Emma and Mason to Room 4 very soon!

Below is the link to the soap experiment for you and your child to enjoy at home. Enjoy!

Birthdays:

Things to remember

- Please remember to wash your child's hands upon arrival.
- With all of our allergies we ask that all outside food be consumed before entering the classroom.
- Water day officially starts May 30th and our water days are Wednesday and Friday mornings.
- With the weather changing, please

- remember to bring weather appropriate extra clothes.
- Please label all of your child's items that they bring into the classroom.
