

COMPREHENSIVE & INNOVATIVE ART PROGRAMS OFFERED THROUGH NYSTC

New York State Teacher Centers are offering several upcoming programs dedicated to the Arts, at no cost to teachers. Research has shown that student involvement in the Arts is closely linked to gains in Social Emotional Learning, civic engagement, academic achievement, equitable opportunity, and more. Here's your chance to sign up for one of these valuable courses this Spring!

ART, COMMUNITY AND TECHNOLOGY

Engage in a program that explores the possibilities for art educators to invite diverse groups of students to learn from one another. Create, collaborate and reflect on artwork through the use of technology and traditional art materials. Create lessons during the program to bring back to your students, following the new state standards for Media Arts. Runs 2/23 - 3/9.

DRAWING CONNECTIONS

In this series, art educators will lead a classroom lesson with teachers engaging as students in the class. The lesson will integrate instruction and conversations about methods, materials, arts standards, adaptations for a variety of learners, and opportunities to support students in various instructional models. Teachers will receive first-hand experience in specific visual arts lessons and concepts for integration. Runs 3/11 - 5/13.
