

2-PART TRAINING: OUR BLIND SPOTS | DIVERSIFY OURSELVES

Our Blind Spots: Part I focuses on understanding bias and its effects on progress. Participants will explore how racial and social stereotypes influence implicit biases, promoting acceptance and reconstruction of these biases. Through interactive discussions and exercises, the program aims to provide tools for addressing race, racism, and gender biases while fostering respect, equity, dignity, and belonging.

Diversify Ourselves: Part II examines how our racial and cultural experiences influence our capacity to promote hope and healing during uncertain times. It highlights the significance of reflection in becoming trusted allies and enhancing community relationships. Through interactive discussions and exercises, participants will gain tools to confront race, racism, and gender biases while developing strategies for respect, equity, dignity, and belonging.
