There is no cost to attend this program.

Forum Objectives:

- Explore the impact of the pandemic on ministry including traumatic stress, community mental health and faith leaders' self-care.
- Compare major differences in community engagement since the pandemic.
- Highlight three ways clergy and other community leaders can strengthen themselves through self-care.

Nicole G. Johnson, PhD, LPC, ACS, CAADC, CCDP-D, BC-TMH, has over 20 years of experience working in the behavioral health care system, providing substance use and mental health services in Philadelphia, surrounding counties and several states. Dr. Johnson is also an ordained minister since 1995. Dr. Johnson serves Thomas Jefferson University as an Assistant Professor and Program Director of the Community and Trauma Counseling Program. In addition, she currently oversees Jefferson's Trauma Education Network's Interfaith Leaders' Learning Collaborative on Trauma, a workgroup of faith leaders who receive ongoing behavioral health education.
