B-JEDI Metrics Part I: NEW DATE! February 27, 10:00am-12:00pm, Zoom

In this session, we will first review and discuss past B-JEDI sessions and how we have applied knowledge gained to our professional and personal relationships and larger work. We will review some of the metrics that can be utilized to measure knowledge implementation from our past trainings.

We will then discuss and examine recommended tools to employ at each stage of the B-JEDI journey: planning, assessing, evaluating, and benchmarking.

B-JEDI Metrics Part II March 5, 10:00am-12:00pm, Zoom

During this session, we will ask and answer: How can my organization get started with the tools shared in February?

What are key steps to implement B-JEDI plans?

If you're feeling stuck at the start or are unsure of how to apply limited time and resources, this session will help guide you. The path forward will look different for all of us, but we can learn from key, core steps together.

Registration will include a question field, with your questions and needs helping to inform this session; all information will be kept confidential.
