Tough Stuff™ is an intensive Applied Behavioral Science workshop that enables participants to gain powerful insights through a cutting edge experiential method that combines theory, practice, and feedback.

Founder Robert P. Crosby was first in a T-group in 1953 and developed this workshop out of that experience. He also founded a graduate program and many leadership development programs using this same methodology. At 90 he is still a guest faculty in our workshops.

T-Group workshops are the core method Crosby & Associates applies to developing people in order to transform workplaces. The primary goal of Tough Stuff™ is to help individuals from all organizational levels and walks of life acquire the strong set of interpersonal skills, solid theoretical perspective, and deep self-awareness necessary to lead and work effectively.

Participants learn practical skills they can use immediately at home and within their working environment:

- A core framework of individual, group, and organizational theories
- A more objective and scientific self-awareness, rooted in emotional intelligence
- How to give and receive scientifically verifiable feedback
- Understanding how, on a lifelong basis, to learn more effectively from their experiences
- Conflict resolution
- Coaching and developing others
- Change management and systems thinking

Don't miss this opportunity to learn from one of the seminal forces in organization and leadership development!

Tuition is $1500.

Space is limited.
