The Holy Trinity—Anything BUT Boring

I find the human body to be fascinating, but as soon as some physician begins to try to explain to me how the body functions (using all those big words I don't understand) I instantly get bored. I am fascinated by those who think God is boring, or the times I get bored at lectures about God. God is not the problem—we are. He is TOO BIG for our understanding.

This Sunday we consider the Triune nature of God—how he is three persons and yet ONE God. I pray you will not find this to be a boring topic. We will not try to understand Him, we will simply seek to understand how we might best see the wonders of such a great God. Let us marvel at the one who paints the beautiful sunset and loves me so much He chose to die for me. May we fall to our knees to think that this great God—invites us to call Him, Father.

Eyes on Jesus,
