Dear Families,

Many of you may recall Flat Stanley, the beloved character from Jeff Brown's book. For years, his adventurous tales have been displayed on classroom bulletin boards worldwide, bringing joy to school communities.

Saint Patrick Catholic School is thrilled to reintroduce Flat Stanley's lesser-known cousin, Flat Shammy, to those who have yet to meet him!

Hailing from Kilkenny, Shammy arrived with the leprechauns who came to pull pranks on St. Patrick's Day. Let's just say he took an unexpected nap in the leather pack of a friend, who then unknowingly whisked him across the rainbow to Tacoma, Washington. Though his travels were unplanned, Shammy has been having a great time and is eager to continue exploring.

We invite all St. Pat's families to share their summer adventures with Shammy in 2025. Whether you're staying home or venturing somewhere new, please snap some photos of Shammy joining the fun and send them to Shammy@saintpats.org. We'll proudly feature them on the school website, social media, and newsletters.

Shammy is always up for some craic (fun). So, feel free to color, decorate, or dress him up. Make it fun, and share your adventures with us!

Questions? Comments? Reach out to Wynter Dait in the development office.

As Shammy would say, Taisteaล Maith (safe travels)!
