1. Excellence in Governing Board Leadership
2. Excellence in Organizational Leadership
3. Program Excellence
4. Excellence in Communications
5. Excellence in Collaboration

SELECTION CRITERIA

Excellence in Governing Board Leadership

- Rationale for Selection - This section requires that the nominator succinctly state the reasons for which the individual board member has been nominated by the organization. While the rationale may include fundraising work, it may not be the primary reason for which the individual is nominated. Examples of board service excellence can include: advocacy, maintaining or refocusing the organization on the mission, driving the organization toward leadership in the field of service, promoting a culture of transparency both internally and externally, and establishing or promoting a results-oriented culture.
- Endorsements from staff and board peers supporting the rationale
- Description of how the nominee motivates others and leadership skills exhibited

Excellence in Organizational Leadership

- Rationale for Selection - This section requires the nominator succinctly state the reasons for which the CEO/E.D. has been nominated by the organization. Examples of organizational leadership excellence include a proven record of successful collaboration with the Board of Directors, promotion of a culture of transparency both internally and externally, devotion to mission, thoughtful strategic leadership, promotion of a results-driven organization and skillful management of the resources of the organization.
- Endorsements from staff and board peers supporting the rationale
- Description of how the nominee motivates others and leadership skills exhibited

Program Excellence

- Rationale for Selection - This section requires the nominator succinctly state the reasons for which the program has been nominated by the organization. The rationale should address the following questions: 1) How does the program address a community need? 2) How does the program fit the description? 3) What are the program results?
- The organization can name an individual or the organization as the recipient of the award. If an individual is chosen, the nomination must address responses to questions acknowledging the individual.
- Endorsements from staff and board peers supporting the rationale
- Endorsements from clients or collaborative partners

Excellence in Communications

- Rationale for Selection - This section requires the nominator succinctly state the reasons for which the marketing and public relations tools created by the organization have been selected for nomination. The organization must submit several examples of its marketing collateral for this award including reference to website. The rationale should address the following questions: 1) Is there a cohesiveness within the series of pieces submitted? 2) How is marketing used to advance the mission of the organization?
- The organization can name an individual or the organization as the recipient of the award. If an individual is chosen, the nomination must address responses to questions acknowledging the individual.
- Endorsements from staff and board peers supporting the rationale
- Endorsements from clients or collaborative partners

Excellence in Collaboration

- Rationale for Selection - This section requires the nominator succinctly state the reasons for which the project has been selected for nomination. The nomination must include several examples of a collaborative project for this award including reference to website. The rationale should address the following questions: 1) How does the collaboration project encompass the relationship? 2) How is the relationship critical to the achievement of the program? 3) How does the project impact a problem, issue or need within the community?
- Endorsements from staff and board peers supporting the rationale
- Endorsements from collaborative partners
- Endorsements from clients
