PLANNING 101 TRAINING SERIES

Para español siga hacia abajo

Dear Stakeholder,

This fall, City Planning will host Planning 101 training sessions focusing on the topics of project and community planning. The annual Planning 101 series provides a general overview of the core functions of planning in Los Angeles and serves as an educational resource for anyone interested in learning more about participation in the land use process, especially residents, newly elected neighborhood council board members, and members of other community-based organizations.

In keeping with Mayor Eric Garcetti's Safer at Home Order, this year's training will be offered virtually to minimize and stop the spread of COVID-19. Attendees will be able to join by telephone or remotely, through GoTo video conferencing software.

Project Planning

The Project Planning training will highlight how projects are reviewed and walk attendees through each step of the development review process—beginning with the submission of a project application at the public counter and ending with the approval of a building permit.

About the Planning 101 Training Series

Launched in 2017, the Planning 101 series is an educational initiative led by Los Angeles City Planning that provides the public with an overview of basic elements of the City's planning and development process. Over the last three years, about 30 trainings have been attended by more than 1,500 community members, including students, residents, neighborhood council members, members of community-based organizations, and planning and policy professionals.

Estimado interesado,

Este otoño, el Departamento de Planeación realizará varias sesiones de capacitación sobre la planeación comunitaria y la planeación de desarrollos urbanos. Esta serie anual brinda una descripción general de las funciones centrales de la planeación en Los Ángeles y sirve como un recurso educativo para cualquier persona que desea aprender más sobre la participación en el proceso de uso de suelo. Están especialmente invitados los residentes de Los Ángeles, los miembros de los consejos vecinales recién elegidos a las juntas y los miembros de otras organizaciones comunitarias.

De acuerdo con la orden de Quedarse en Casa del alcalde Eric Garcetti, la capacitación de este año se ofrecerá virtualmente para minimizar y detener la propagación de COVID-19. Los asistentes podrán unirse por teléfono o de forma remota a través del software de videoconferencia GoTo.

Planeación de Desarrollos Urbanos

La capacitación sobre Planeación de Desarrollos Urbanos resaltaré cómo se revisan los desarrollos urbanos y guiará a los asistentes a través de cada paso del proceso de revisión de desarrollos, comenzando con la presentación de una solicitud de proyecto en el mostrador público y terminando con la aprobación de un permiso de construcción.
