VAN NUYS AIRPORT AVIATION CAREER DAY GOES VIRTUAL IN 2021

Annual Event Engages Students and Inspires Imaginations to Pursue Aviation Careers

(Van Nuys, CA) Van Nuys Airport (VNY), one of the world's busiest general aviation airports, is taking its annual Aviation Career Day virtual this year. The event, which will be held Friday, April 30 from 10-11:30 a.m., will be co-hosted by Los Angeles City Council President Nury Martinez (whose District 6 includes VNY), VNY and The Valley Economic Alliance, and sponsored by fixed-base operators Signature Flight Support and Jet Aviation. The 90-minute program is an opportunity for regional high school students to learn about the many types of career opportunities in the aviation field.

"Aviation Career Day not only exposes students to the world of aviation, but also gives them an opportunity to walk away with contacts and information, bringing them a step closer to achieving their dreams," said Nury Martinez, Council President, Los Angeles City Council.

The event will include presentations from the Federal Aviation Administration, film and charter companies and women in various aviation careers including Los Angeles World Airports Human Resources and Clay Lacy Aviation. Students will also have networking opportunities with members of aviation-related organizations including the San Fernando Valley Ninety-Nines, the U.S. Army, California Aeronautical University and Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 40 and others. The program also will include a question-and-answer session and conclude with a showing of VNY's new virtual airport tour, which debuted in January.

“What most people don’t know is that you can have a passion for accounting and a passion for aviation and do both while working at an airport,” said Flora Margheritis, Airport Manager, VNY. “So many professionals are represented in the diverse world of aviation, and we are excited to once again introduce young people to these career possibilities.”

This will be the 15th year VNY has hosted an Aviation Career Day. In 2019, the event drew more than 1,100 students and more than 40 exhibitors.

“The partnership we have with Los Angeles City Council President Martinez and Van Nuys Airport provides exposure and opportunities to students that they might not otherwise have,” said Sonya Kay Blake, President and CEO, The Valley Economic Alliance.

Van Nuys Airport takes pride in its educational programs, and has pursued innovative ways to continue delivering quality experiences to students amid pandemic restrictions. VNY continues to support local schools and organizations. Students interested in participating may register here.
