CLEVELAND BALLET

MEET SARAH NORMAN, CLEVELAND BALLET BOARD MEMBER

Sarah Norman is a Cleveland-based attorney with a focus on historic preservation and public-sector law. A graduate of Goucher College and Case Western Reserve University School of Law, she began her legal career as a deputy county prosecutor in Indiana before opening a solo practice. Since 2013, she has served as the Sunshine Law compliance officer and document support staff at the Cuyahoga Land Bank, where she developed and manages paper and digital record systems for the organization.

Sarah has held leadership roles with several nonprofit and civic organizations, including Preservation Ohio (formerly the Ohio Preservation Alliance), Families United Lending Library, Twins Days, Inc., and the Hudson High School Music Association. She is also chair of the Hudson Planning Commission and a member of the City's Charter Review Commission. Sarah brings to her work a strategic mindset shaped by years of civic engagement and multiple campaigns for public office.

She and her husband, Forrest, live in Hudson and have four adult children. Sarah is an avid traveler, scrapbooker, tablescaper, and supporter of the arts in Ohio.
