A Resurrection People!

Grace and Peace to you in the name of our Risen Lord!

We shared it again! One of the most inspirational and wonderfully empowering Easter moments for me is in the singing of Charles Wesley's famous hymn "Christ the Lord is Risen Today" on Easter morning. It is always a triumphant moment when we, with great assurance and without hesitation, lift our communal voices to proclaim the truth a new... Christ the Lord is risen today! Alleluia!

I think I am so moved by this hymn because wherever it is sung, those voices sing as though they truly believe they are a "resurrection people." We sing it with fervor regardless of the current reality and at least for that moment on that very sacred morning, our hope in Christ is refreshed and renewed. Easter morning assures us that our vision of a Christ-centered future is already in place for those who have eyes to see and ears to hear the presence of the risen Christ among us. Yes, there is so much more to be done in Christ's name, but the outcome is sure! More battles to be fought, yet the war against sin and death is over.

As we shared bread and cup together during holy communion last Sunday, we were reminded in the Prayer of Great Thanksgiving (the communion prayer) that because of the death and resurrection of Jesus, we, the church together, have become the living, breathing, loving, reaching, nurturing physical body of Christ through which others are able to witness God's presence in our world today. Christ is risen in us!

Often I need to open my hymnal and re-read Wesley's great hymn text. Those without resurrection eyes see little hope for their future and tend to live more like a people of the crucifixion than people of the resurrection. Brothers and sisters, without the crucifixion there would be no resurrection ... no hope... no new life. The point of that truth is of course that resurrection is real. It is the church's to own, to proclaim, to live and to share. Resurrection is the church's vision to offer to a world convinced there is little hope for a transformed world.

While Easter Sunday is past, we are just beginning the journey through the Great Fifty Days of our Easter celebration. What difference will this season of Easter make in your life this year? What can you do to be a part of the resurrection people at Elm Park UMC? Will you tell about where you have seen Christ working among us in this great fellowship?

And of course, remember we are all on this Journey together!

From my heart to yours... Grace & Peace!

Rev. Mike

Last month I announced that we were working on a new web-series to replace "Announcements with Diana Howe". Later this month we will be releasing the first episode or two of this new series. The series is going to be called "The Elm Park Journey". We chose this name because we are on a journey together and so we can tie it into Rev. Mike's weekly email, "The Weekly Journey" and our monthly newsletter "The Journey". The series is planned to be a Bi-Weekly Interview style show starring our Lay Leader Diana Howe, who will be the show's host. Each episode will have a different guest that Diana will chat with and each episode will have a different topic of interest. This casual video format will make each episode different and unique, and we can use each episode for events and programs in the future.

Our first set of episodes will include interviews with our Senior Pastor, Rev. Mike Bealla, who will talk about our Disciple Making Mission and our 2018 Church Vision. Our Pastoral Assistant, Carrie Granche, will introduce our new upcoming Youth Bible Study, and our Church Council Chair, Dr. Bill Miller, will talk about some of the amazing things our Church is doing with the guidance of the Church Council. Finally, our Administrative Assistant/Book Keeper, Marie Priblo, will talk about what she does and will share a little about herself so that you can get to know her a bit more.

We are hoping that this new video web-series will help everyone get to know our church leadership more and help everyone see all the great programs and ministries that Elm Park United Methodist Church is doing.

If you have an idea for other future episodes that we could do, feel free to email me at wbealla@elmparkumchurch.org.

Another reports its Wesley Praise Dance Ministry's mission is to minister to the body of Christ the heart of God, through movement and creative expressions of praise, worship and prayer.

Pastor Mike recalls that in the late 50's and early 60's when he was a young person in the Methodist church dancing had become permissible in many of our churches.

Square dancing was common in rural areas and provided much fellowship in the life of the community and the church. He also remembers Saturday night dances in some of the larger churches with music provided by live rock bands.

"However," our pastor adds, "I don't think dancing on Sunday was at all common, even to today," primarily "because Sunday was seen as a day to worship and to keep sacred."

There are exceptions, he pointed out. Liturgical dance is a part of Sunday morning worship in some churches that use dancers to convey visual expressions in response to God. These can include, praise, pray, sorrow, joy, etc. and can add much visual power to the worship experience."

Even though Methodists once frowned on dancing, it is a big part of the Bible, especially in the Old Testament. King David, Moses and Sister Mariam were among those who danced to praise God; Mariam danced with the Hebrews as they made it through the Red Sea back to dry land.

Many years ago, Avery and Marsh, a pastor and musician from Port Jervis, led a training session on worship at Elm Park. One of the songs they featured was "David Danced."

The stanza Pastor Mike remembers most was:

"David danced before the Lord, Danced in his Ephod
In his Holy linen (underwear), danced his thanks to God!"

*dancing
for Him*

If the newspaper correction of February 1942 was any indication, at Elm Park David would have had to do his dancing on some day other than the Sabbath.

For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.

JEREMIAH 29:11

DANCING

By ED E ROGERS
Elm Park Archivist

Seventy-five years ago dancing, especially in the church, was a touchy subject for some Methodists.

This became perfectly clear in February 1942 when the local Sunday newspaper published photos of "Sunday evening church goers" folk dancing at Elm Park in its popular rotogravure section.

Apparently The Scrantonian editors and the Elm Park office were flooded with complaints. Two days later, in an effort to appease the unhappy Methodists, the paper said it was all a mistake.

The following appeared in the newspaper's affiliated daily, The Tribune, under a headline that proclaimed "No Dances Sundays at Elm Park Church":

"Through an error it was stated in the caption accompanying two pictures in the rotogravure section of The Scrantonian Sunday that folk dancing had been held on Sunday nights at Elm Park Methodist Church. This is untrue. The two pictures showing the dancing were taken on a Thursday night at the close of the 13th annual Mid-Winter Institute at the church, the Rev. Charles W. Phillips, associate pastor, said last night."

Presumably that quelled the uproar and Elm Parkers got back to the other news of the day such as the Japanese continuing to capture island after island in the Pacific while American troops fought to maintain a foothold on Corregidor in the Philippines, the first U.S. troops landing in Britain and similar events of World War 2.

Dancing and some other forms of entertainment have evoked much debate in Methodist circles for years.

The 1892 Book of Discipline says the General Conference had adopted a resolution declaring "dancing, theater going, card playing, and like worldly indulgences to be contrary to the spirit of Christianity." It went on to instruct the pastors on how we are to discipline sinners who indulge in worldly pleasures.

That thinking remained until May of 1924 when, at a meeting in Maryland, the General Conference repealed it saying Methodistism should be a religion that "appeals to the conscience of a man and keeps him away from these things."

"We will change the minister standing in the pulpit with a police club in his hand to a minister standing there with a shepherd's crook," declared the chairman of the Committee on the State of the Church.

In the years since then things – on the civil as well as the religious fronts – have continued to change.

In Pennsylvania, the Blue Laws that were intended to preserve the sanctity of the Christian Sabbath, gradually were repealed or were just plain ignored.

And dancing began to find its way into many churches. Pastor Mike Bealla says the current United Methodist discipline doesn't mention it.

A search of the Internet for "Methodists and dancing" results in scores of "hits."

United Methodist churches across the country are sponsoring dance instructions and dance sessions featuring everything from old fashion folk dances to the ballroom style.

One says its line dancing group provides an opportunity for physical as well as spiritual wholeness.
