INTERPROFESSIONAL CENTER FOR EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING AND SIMULATION

Standardized Patients* Needed

University of Massachusetts Chan Medical School
Interprofessional Center for Experiential Learning & Simulation (iCELS) is committed to teaching medical learners how to work with all different types of patients.

What is a Standardized Patient (SP)?

- SPs look and act like a real patient
- SPs are everyday people who form part of a teaching team at UMass Chan Medical School
- SPs receive training to act out a story of a pretend personal history and a medical issue of a patient in a realistic way. They are trained to act out this story the same way each time.
- SPs teach medical learners how to work with patients.

Who can be an SP? People of all genders and all ages - we need you!

What is the pay? It is competitive! SPs are paid an hourly rate depending on the type of exam. Most of all, get paid for a satisfying role helping medical learners learn to interact with patients!
