Preserving the Artist's Heritage

Senior Artists Initiative is a secular 501(c)3 charitable, not-for-profit organization that strives to preserve the heritage of visual artists through its programs and projects. Founded in 1998 the Organization has sought to educate artists about estate preparation and the preservation of their artistic heritage.

This is the twentieth and final year of its Inventory & Oral History Project. During that time Senior Artists Initiative has taught many artists how prepare for estate planning. During that same period it has produced and published video recorded oral histories of ninety-seven prominent Philadelphia area visual artists.

This exhibit features the work of six artists who participated in the 2017 and 2018 Inventory & Oral History Projects.

The Organization is directed and operated by a corps of volunteers. To learn about the artists that have participated in the Inventory & Oral History Project during the past twenty years.
