About Beth Porter:

On faculty at Cedarville University since 1997, Beth Cram Porter is the Associate Professor of Voice and serves as Chair of the Department of Music and Worship. A classically trained singer, she has earned a splendid reputation as a soloist and recitalist. In 2004, she was the featured soloist at the White House National Day of Prayer ceremony and sang for President George W. Bush and 200 of his invited guests. Porter calls herself a "professional noise maker" and bird calls are her hidden talent! She takes seriously the biblical command to "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord!"
