

Continued from the Good News:

The Mannings have been dorm parents for junior high boys for the past 6 years. Other tasks that the Mannings fill at the school are teaching French, psychology, coaching soccer and robotics and working in the finance office. Their daughter Anna graduated from RVA in July. The Mannings are on a one year home assignment while they help her get settled in the U.S. She plans to attend community college starting in January. The Mannings have a display table in the foyer and would love to answer any of your questions about their specific role in missions or about missions opportunities in general.
