

More about Heartisans:

Per their website, Heartisans stated goal is increasing the employability and self-sufficiency of program participants is achieved through a community partnership with Longview Economic Development Corporation (LEDCO) as an ACT Career Ready 101 site. In doing so, they utilize a manufacturing business model. Heartisans' products are handmade in their various manufacturing studios. These quality products, along with other sourced products, are available for sale in their retail shop and website. Studios: Manufacturing, Sewing, Quilting, Embroidery/Vinyl Personalization, Artisan Craft, Letterpress Printing, Handwork and Basketmaking

Women are referred into the Heartisans' job readiness program from other community non-profits, churches, social groups, and the community at large.

Basically, Heartisans serves as sort of a "Second Stop" for ladies that are working toward a better life. They help bridge the gap for those that have completed their GED and are working on further education. Heartisans has settled in their new location off of Gilmer road in the Spring Hill area. They are busy renovating, and building to better serve their partners and continue serving Women of East Texas. If your family, small group, or anybody in the church is looking to go and serve in your hometown, Heartisans Marketplace has plenty of need and will gladly help you get plugged in.
