ABOUT JCT

The Jerusalem College of Technology (JCT) is one of Israel's major academic institutions with over 5,000 students on three campuses. The College specializes in high-tech engineering, industrial management, business administration and life and health sciences.

JCT's mission is to produce highly skilled professionals for Israel's rapidly developing industries that possess a strong commitment to Jewish values, the Jewish people, and the State of Israel. JCT empowers diverse segments of Israeli society — who would otherwise not have access to higher education — to become contributing members of Israel's workforce.

For 50 years, JCT's advanced academic leadership, high ethical and professional standards, innovative programs, and distinct emphasis on practical applied skills have earned the College international recognition. The College's research and development efforts have led to major advances in cyber security, medical technology and other fields. JCT alumni and faculty have spearheaded projects critical to Israel's national security and have received awards from the IDF Chief of Staff and the Ministry of Defense.

More than 100 high-tech companies have been established by JCT graduates, including some of Israel's largest technology startups.

MACHON TAL / TAL CAMPUS FOR WOMEN IS UNIQUE AMONG ISRAEL'S INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

Machon Tal engages, educates and trains religious and marginalized women for the Israeli workforce in essential fields for the future, such as technology, healthcare and national security.

The Jerusalem College of Technology has embarked on an ambitious $100 million capital campaign to construct the state-of-the-art Tal Campus for women.

This new permanent home for Machon Tal will be centrally located in Jerusalem, providing easy access for students across the country. It will include a 12-storey tower and a series of six-storey satellite buildings, which will together house:

- Faculties of Health Sciences, Management, Engineering and Computer Science
- Selma Jelinek School of Nursing
- Computer labs, telecommunications and project labs
- Academic library and study centre
- Student centre with dining facilities
- Amphitheatre and conference centre

CREATING ECONOMIC MOBILITY FOR WOMEN

- Israel's first women-only engineering, technology and healthcare college.
- Over 2,000 women in undergraduate and graduate degree programs.
- First Master's program in health informatics to launch in the fall of 2022 in collaboration with the University of Toronto.
- Selma Jelinek School of Nursing ranks first among 24 nursing programs in Israel, graduating approximately 250 nurses annually and is the only joint Nurse Practitioner/Master of Science in Nursing program in Israel.
- 90% of JCT's women graduates are employed in their field, filling the shortage of computer engineers and healthcare workers and advancing religious-secular understanding in the workplace.
- Attracts and retains students from disadvantaged populations, enabling access to higher education and changing societal perceptions of minority populations.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Nikki R. Haley

Nikki R. Haley is the former United States Permanent Representative to the United Nations. She served as a member of the National Security Council and President Donald Trump's Cabinet, where she broke ground as the first Indian-American woman to hold a cabinet-level position.

Born in Bamberg, South Carolina, to Indian immigrant parents, Ambassador Haley learned the value of hard work from a young age. After graduating from Clemson University, Haley worked in accounting and later rejoined her family's business. She made the transition into politics and ran for office when she saw how hard it was for them to make a dollar, and how easy it was for the government to take it away.

Following, Haley achieved many firsts in her career. After serving as Representative of South Carolina's District 87, she became the first minority, and first woman, to serve as Governor of South Carolina.

Under Governor Haley's leadership, South Carolina was a national leader in economic development. The state's unemployment rate hit a 15-year low, saw over $20 billion in new capital investment, and her administration announced new jobs in every county – over 85,000 total.

As the state's commander in chief, then-Governor Haley led the state through some of its most difficult periods -- forging unity and consensus in the wake of a racially-driven church shooting, enacting change after a white police officer shot an innocent black victim, and comforting a community following a tragic school shooting. In addition, she managed South Carolina's emergency response during multiple natural disasters including a devastating thousand-year flood and many damaging hurricanes, helping South Carolinians survive and recover.

Governor Haley also ushered in South Carolina's largest education reform in decades – making education funding more equitable for schools in the state's poorest communities, prioritizing reading in early grades, and equipping classrooms with the latest technology.

Reelected in 2014, she served as Governor until confirmed by the U.S. Senate as the U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations in January of 2017. At the United Nations, Ambassador Haley ensured the American people saw value for their investment – introducing reforms that made the organization more efficient, transparent, and accountable. In a two year period, she negotiated over $1.3 billion in savings, including making UN peacekeeping missions more effective and targeted, while improving their ability to protect civilians.

In the UN Security Council, Ambassador Haley worked to defend Americans' interests and keep our country safe. She spearheaded negotiations resulting in the strongest set of sanctions ever placed on North Korea for its nuclear weapons program.

As UN Ambassador, Haley championed human rights. She challenged human rights violators across the globe, standing up to oppressive regimes in Iran, Syria, Venezuela, Cuba, and Russia. During the U.S. presidency of the UN Security Council, she hosted the first-ever session devoted solely to promoting human rights.

Her fight for human rights took her across the globe, from Syrian refugees in Jordan and Turkey, to internally displaced people in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and South Sudan, and Venezuelan migrants walking miles every day to cross the Colombian border for food and medicine.

She focuses all of her efforts, regardless of the endeavor, on making an impact for good. "When you see something wrong," Ambassador Haley says, "keep pushing to make it right and keep speaking up."

Embracing teaching through storytelling, Ambassador Haley imparts lessons in leadership, negotiating, and decision-making through first-hand anecdotes from her career in public service. With candor and sharp insight, she shows audiences that America is truly the land of opportunity, and that if you work hard, you can fulfill your full potential and achieve your highest aims.

In Loving Memory of Our Beloved Father

Mr. Kurt Rothschild, Z'L

Our father's remarkable life was marked by his single-minded love of the Jewish people and his drive to put that Ahavas Yisrael into action. Whatever he could do to uplift the Klal or the alleviate the suffering of an individual Jew became his priority. That is what drove his fervent belief in the JCT's mission and his tremendous, unflagging efforts to support this unique institution.

The JCT's top-quality education and training, combined with its purposeful recruitment of students who would otherwise lack opportunities for advancement, make it the perfect combination of our father's passions. JCT fosters the economic success of Jewish families while at the same time, strengthening the State of Israel with a cadre of highly trained professionals who fill vital roles in healthcare, high-tech and business.

Our family owes a tremendous debt of gratitude to all of those who have taken up our father's cause by participating in this dinner and supporting the JCT in his memory. May we continue to see the flourishing of this vital institution as it brings stability and success to Jewish families, as well as strength, creative energy and prosperity to our land.
