

As we wrap up the holiday season, many of us take time to reflect on our accomplishments and set goals for the future. This year SSI is celebrating our 40th Year Anniversary. A milestone that highlights our success and a time to reassess our plans and strategies to sustain long-lasting success into the future.

Our mission has always been and always will be to protect, but how do we stay in front of the game as the industry of fire and explosion protection changes?

Staying on-top of the latest technologies – Innovations in communication, monitoring, and detection are changing the ways we provide protection, making them more accurate and responsive to the needs of our customers. We work closely with multiple manufacturers, suppliers, and partners to provide the newest advancements in fire and explosion protection. Having so many options available helps ensure we can find the right mix of solutions that addresses your business needs.

Increased attention to sustainability – Environmentally-friendly protection options are a big topic in the industry today. As concerns about the environment continue to grow, we will continue to focus on strategies enabling us to take an environmentally-friendly approach in helping you achieve your best business practices.

Keeping up with codes and regulations – Fire and explosion protection codes vary by jurisdiction at the local, state, and national level. They are also continually changing over time. Our team works vigorously to learn applicable codes and standards set by jurisdictions to assist you in maintaining building fire and explosion protection compliance.

The landscape of fire and explosion protection is always evolving. Finding the right solution can be a time consuming and a frustrating process. We are here to listen and are here to help. We challenge ourselves every day to stay ahead of the curve, to learn and to educate, and to service the needs of our customers.

Please visit our website regularly and follow us on linked-in as we continue to provide relevant content to support you and your fire and explosion protection future goals.

Best regards,
Debbie Smith
General Manager