Dear Families,

Here at Rowe, we are thinking of you and hoping that everyone is healthy and safe! We are excited (and a little anxious) to start e-learning. We are working very hard to create meaningful opportunities for your scholar to stay connected and grow academically while at home. We imagine you have lots of questions, and we are here for you! Please, please, please reach out to your scholar's advisor or teachers for anything you need - both related to learning or any other needs you might have (food, resources, a grown-up to talk to :) We know this is very new, and might not go perfectly. We appreciate your patience, support, feedback, and collaboration as we figure it out. We are here for you, and we will all get through this together. #GoRowe

Questions & Answers

When does e-learning start?

- Monday, April 13 at 9:00 am. Make sure your scholar is ready to learn and on time!

What does my scholar need for e-learning?

- Your scholar will need a computer or tablet
- Your scholar will need internet access
- Your scholar will need a quiet place to focus on learning every day

Where does my scholar find this information?

- Everything for e-learning is in Google Classroom (classroom.google.com) Your scholar should have an invitation to their grade level classroom in their Rowe email
- We will review expectations for online learning with all scholars the first week

What is the schedule?

- Scholars will have advisory in Google Hangouts every day from 9-9:30 am
- Scholars will then go to one online class each day from 9:30-11:30 am
- Scholars will have lunch and a lunchtime activity from 11:30-12:30
- Scholars will have independent work to do from 12:30-3:30. During this time, teachers will be available for office hours; scholars can email or call with questions.
- Here's a chart if you like that better:

What about special education services?

- Scholars who get special education will still be getting services. The learning specialists will be teaching the same classes as always and modifying and accommodating work for scholars based on their needs.

What if my child is struggling and needs more support?

- We are here for you! If they are struggling academically, please reach out to the classroom teachers. If they are struggling socially or emotionally, our student support team is here.
- Please review our Remote Learning Learning Discipline Plan
- Email Ms. Solow at asolow@nush.org or Ms. Lewis at mlewis@nush.org to discuss support.
