V2X Industry Conference coming to Peachtree Corners

More than 500 industry and academic leaders in the growing field of V2X (Vehicle to Everything) technology will gather in Peachtree Corners to show off the latest technology that enables objects like cars to communicate with other objects like other cars, buildings, gas pumps, traffic lights, pedestrian phones, etc. The world in which our devices check in with one another to keep us safer, healthier, more comfortable & entertained is here & growing exponentially.

V2X Live

V2X Live is the premier information hub for the Vehicle-to-Everything infrastructure ecosystem. Its mission is to become the main resource for the V2X community — an independent, expert-driven clearinghouse for thought leadership, analysis, and news for all executives involved in the convergence of communications, automotive, transportation, computing and cloud services. Its goal is to help advance the investment, development and adoption of V2X systems throughout North America and beyond.

The event, presented by T-Mobile and sponsored by Intel, is produced in partnership with Curiosity Lab. Mark your calendar for March 16-17, 2022. If you have been thinking about checking us out – come to the conference! Tours of Curiosity Lab and other special activities designed to connect mobility leaders will make the trip worth your while.
