

August, 2016

Why You Should Not Hire an Unlicensed HVAC Contractor

Here are 10 things to consider before hiring an unlicensed HVAC contractor:

- It is against Georgia state law to hire an unlicensed HVAC contractor.
- The equipment manufacturer probably will not warranty the equipment if there is a problem.
- The contractor may not be trained by the manufacturer to install that type of sophisticated, computerized equipment.
- The contractor is not competent to design the proper system for your home.
- If there is an insurance claim involved, the insurance company may not cover it.
- The contractor may not be in business tomorrow to stand behind the work.
- The contractor does not have workers' comp- What if the worker gets hurt at your home? You become liable!
- The contractor may not pay bills and now your property could be liened upon.
- The contractor has not gotten Continuing Education and is not up on current codes, laws and manufacturers installation instructions.
- The contractor probably has not gotten the proper permits.

If the contractor were doing all of these things, why wouldn't they be licensed? DON'T RISK IT!

Ringo McCollum, Building Official, rmccollum@peachtreecornersga.gov