Dear Chairperson Lofgren and Vice Chair Davis:

We would like to register the Congressional Dietary Supplement Caucus as a Congressional Member Organization for the 116th Congress. The Congressional Dietary Supplement Caucus will serve as an informal, bipartisan group of Members to facilitate discussion among lawmakers about the benefits of dietary supplements, provide tips and insights for better health and wellness, and to promote research into the health care savings these products provide. There is a growing interest among the American public in dietary supplements for health and well-being. The caucus seeks to enhance Congressional attention to the role of supplements in health promotion, disease prevention, and address the regulation of the supplement industry.

Senators Tim Scott and Martin Heinrich and Representatives John Curtis, Tony Cardenas, and Andy Harris will serve as Co-Chairs of the Congressional Dietary Supplement Caucus. Staff assigned to handle caucus related issues are listed below:
