Director's Corner

One of my favorite parts of working at camp is the high degree of seasonality to the ministry. There are rhythmic cycles that keep things fresh. Over the course of a year, this work finds a balance between indoor and outdoor extroverted leading and introverted number crunching, and hands-on tasks and larger strategic initiatives.

In the early fall, we spent equal amounts of time in the office reflecting on our busiest season and looking at ways to improve, and outdoors welcoming guests to our beautiful site. As our usage slows for the holidays (note that we continue to welcome more groups than ever, stretching our calendar), we enter a season of planning. We thankfully do not spend much time outdoors in the cold of December and January, instead laying the groundwork for the next amazing summer. And there is plenty to plan for!

Summer camp registration opens soon, and our calendar for 2023 is already filling with guest groups on weeknights and weekdays throughout the year. See below for more info on those. And what's more, we are looking forward with you all soon about more opportunities to be a part of our ministry, and ways that we plan on expanding to include even more children, youth, and families.

So while it may seem like we hibernate a bit, this is a season of great importance for our ministry. We are eager for you all on the other side (when the weather warms up and the sun isn't setting at 4:30 in the afternoon).

Grace and peace to you all,

Ryan "Flash" Moore
