SPEAKER

Hope Wills, MA, RD, CSP, IBCLC, received her BS in Food & Dietetics at CSU Long Beach in 1986, and her MA in Counseling at CSU Dominguez Hills in 2002. She became a Registered Dietitian Nutritionist in 1993 and an IBCLC in 2015. She serves as a pediatric dietitian and lactation consultant at a local pediatric hospital. She provides service in both disciplines in both the inpatient and outpatient setting.

DESCRIPTION

In this session, Hope Wills, MA, RD, CSP, IBCLC will explore core principles of Infant Mental Health and how they align with lactation practice. Using a case-based format, participants will learn how to integrate these models into clinical practice. Ms. Wills will explore Dr. Perry's Neurosequential Model of Therapeutics, Dr. Berry Brazelton's Touchpoints Approach and Drs. Gilkerson and Gray's Fussy Baby work.

OBJECTIVES

By the end of this presentation, participants can expect to:

- List 3 key principles within infant mental health
- Describe 3 how those concepts align with lactation practice.
- Articulate at least one strategy that they can include in their practice.
