OKLAHOMA'S 47 GAME WINNING STREAK

One of the fun topics in sports, is debating the unbreakable records. Cy Young's 511 wins, Joe DiMaggio's 56 game hitting streak, UCLA's 88 game winning streak in college basketball and Wilt Chamberlain's 100 point game in an NBA game come to mind. In college football, possibly the most unbreakable record is Oklahoma's 47 game winning streak from 1953-1957. Below we list, in detail, all of the wins in the Sooners streak. We begin with the tie vs Pittsburgh and end with Notre Dame's 7-0 upset win in Norman, that halted the streak. Below we list all the games. Home teams are shown in BOLD CAPS.

COMPARING NFL STADIUMS FROM 1970 TO 2025

Below we list all of the home stadiums in the NFL in 1970 and in 2025. Amazingly, there's just one NFL franchise that is still playing in the same stadium in 2025 that they called home in 1970 and that is the Green Bay Packers. FYI the Packers also called Milwaukee County Stadium "their secondary home" in 1970. You'll notice several changes as far as seating capacity and playing surfaces that are vastly different, but the biggest difference is that in 2025, not a single NFL franchise shares a stadium with a baseball team, thus not infield dirt to contend with or no seams where the sliding pits, pitchers mounds or home plate areas were located. We list the teams that shared their venue with a MLB team (or a Minor League team) in 1970. There were just 26 NFL franchises in 1970 and now, in 2025, there are 32. There have been a few franchise relocations throughout the years as well.
