

Debbie Baxter

Debbie Baxter is a Senior Advisor in the EY Transaction Real Estate advisory practice. Her focus is on workplace and accommodation strategies in the real estate industry including portfolio optimization, operating model reviews, innovation and systems infrastructure.

Ms. Baxter has 30+ years of experience working with businesses to implement transformational workplace change – from office relocation projects, changes in real estate utilization, to changes in culture or technology. She is a client advocate who can uniquely combine the ability to recommend the strategies that drive the desired business outcome as well as have the leadership insight to oversee adoption of the change.

She is most passionate about the "Future of Work" - working with clients to adapt their business to the trends evident in our economy and society that will challenge our existing infrastructure and drive the need for a new way of thinking about work environments and technology.

Debbie's efforts have been recognized nationally – she has been awarded the Top 100 Most Powerful Women award in the Trailblazer category, is a ULI Women's Leadership Initiative champion, IFMA member of the year, has won many awards for sustainability projects and is a Fellow of the Certified Public Accountants of Canada.
