

Sandra Neill, Associate, and workplace strategist at Lemay

Sandra continues to push the boundaries of impact, innovation, and experience across Lemay's national office portfolio of projects and helps organizations leverage their enterprise performance with a Health & Wellness & Sustainable strategy.

Intentionally linking organizational culture, workplace strategy, employee experience, and occupancy planning, she focuses on optimizing real estate costs and improving employee engagement through healthy design.

Sandra believes that healthy design principles leave an impression with people walking away feeling something meaningful and lasting, defining emotional connections, memorable experiences, and time shared. The workplace environment can inspire and empower enterprises to build a better and healthier future together.