Hospice Assist Continues to Support People Facing Illness & Grief

Hospice of Northwest Michigan is excited to announce its re-launch as Northwest Michigan Hospice Assist!

During a time of change, Hospice of Northwest Michigan recently set forth on a journey of exploration of its roots as well as its future. The organization has a long history of community partnership in support of patients experiencing end of life. The initial non-profit agency, Charlevoix County Hospice, stemmed from a grassroots effort in 1982 and had partnered with the clinical team from the Health Department of Northwest Michigan since 2002.

From its inception, the focus of the non-profit organization has been supporting people caring for loved ones with advanced illness in their homes through non-medical volunteer assistance. Earlier this year, the Board of Directors and Executive Director, Jeanne Marriott, engaged in a strategic planning process. When reviewing their key components, core values and gaps in end-of-life care within our communities, the mission emerged. Board President, Melissa Zelenak, shared that “What we realized is that the mission really hasn’t changed from all those years ago when the agency started: we need to provide support for those facing illness and grief. There is strength in numbers and providing volunteer and grief support to our community members lends strength based on that principle.”

While the agency’s name will be new – Northwest Michigan Hospice Assist (or simply, Hospice Assist) – their goal is to remain a non-medical hospice agency that can provide support to people caring for their loved ones. In addition, Marriott shared that they will continue to be the ‘go-to source’ for grief support thanks to the work of David Behling. She added, “David is a well-known figure in northern Lower Michigan and remains a beloved and trusted counselor to those experiencing loss of any kind.”

Hospice Assist believes that people facing illness, death, and grief must be supported through their unique experience and across their lifespan. They are committed to helping individuals process and reconcile these transitions, with an emphasis on bereavement due to a loss of any kind. Hospice Assist embraces and advocates for the philosophy of hospice care and will collaborate with other local partners to wrap needed resources in a cocoon of comprehensive physical, emotional, spiritual and compassionate care.

Northwest Michigan Hospice Assist is a 501(c)3 non-profit, non-medical hospice service specializing in volunteer and grief support for those facing illness and loss, serving Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego Counties.
