Subject: Limited Competition: Andrew Carnegie Fellows Program

Date: October 21, 2021

Dear UNM Researchers,

The purpose of the Andrew Carnegie Fellows Program is to support high-caliber scholarship in the social sciences and humanities, making it possible for the recipients to devote time to research and writing that addresses pressing issues and cultural transitions affecting us at home and abroad. Topics areas might include: global connections and global ruptures; strengthening U.S. democracy and exploring new narratives; environments, natural and human; and technological and cultural creativity-potential and perils.

Andrew Carnegie fellowships are open only to citizens or permanent residents of the United States whose names have been forwarded by a nominator designated by Carnegie Corporation of New York. The following are eligible for consideration for a fellowship: senior and junior scholars, journalists, and public intellectuals. A junior scholar is defined as a scholar who received his or her Ph.D. ten years ago or less—that is, between 2011 and 2021. A senior scholar is a scholar more than ten years out from his or her Ph.D. Fellowships of $200,000 will be awarded to up to thirty scholars. More details can be found at https://www.carnegie.org/news/articles/andrew-carnegie-fellows-2022 . The deadline for full proposals to the agency is November 22, 2021.

This is a limited competition; each institution is limited to two nominations. Please submit your 3 page prospectus (plus budget and CV; all documents in a SINGLE PDF file, 12 point font) via the UNM InfoReady Review portal https://unm.infoready4.com/ by noon on November 1, 2021. No late submissions will be considered.

The prospectus (pre-proposal) should address the major points describing the project, including a projected work plan and approximate time frame and including whether you propose a one or two-year period of award, whether you will be teaching or on sabbatical and the time you will allot to work on the project in the summer. Please indicate which topic you will address: Global connections and global ruptures, Strengthening U.S. democracy and exploring new narratives, Environments, natural and human, Technological and cultural creativity—potential and perils. The narrative should be accompanied by a draft budget overview and a one-page bulleted PI CV.

Nominations will be evaluated based on the following criteria:

- Originality and promise of the idea
- Quality of the proposal
- Potential impact on the field
- Record of the nominee
- Plans to communicate findings to a broad audience
