

North Carolina, the United States, and the First World War: A Centennial Legacy

Tuesday November 15 starting at 6:30 p.m.

Western Office – NC Dept. of Natural and Cultural Resources – 176 Riceville Road, Asheville NC, www.ncdcr.gov/westernoffice

Steven Sabol is Associate Professor of History at The University of North Carolina at Charlotte. His forthcoming book, “The Touch of Civilization”: Comparing American and Russian Internal Colonization is scheduled to be published in December 2016 by the University Press of Colorado. In addition, he is co-editing several books devoted to the First World War, including North Carolina During the First World War and three books in the “Russia’s Great War and Revolution” series. He is the former editor of two different scholarly journals, Nationalities Papers and First World War Studies.

Dr. Sabol will look at the role North Carolina played during the war.

This program is free, however RSVP is required. To reserve a seat, please call: (828) 296-7230 ext. 221 or email angela.jervis@ncdcr.gov

Visitors may view the exhibit, “North Carolina in the Great War” currently on display at the Western Office both before and after the program from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.