

THREE opportunities for College for Seniors Instructor Support and How to Register

1. Creating Simple Power Point Presentations for Your College for Seniors Course

Tuesdays, February 28 and March 7
10 a.m. - noon

This two-session workshop will demonstrate how to construct and use a simple Power Point presentation for use when teaching at College for Seniors. Learn how to collect and add illustrations, movies and text to your presentations. We will construct sample presentations and learn how to use them to make your classes more interesting and effective. There will be two two-hour sessions with a week in between so you will have time between sessions to work on your presentation.

2. Accelerated “Speak Out, Speak Up” for College for Seniors instructors

Saturdays, March 4 and March 11
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Based on the College for Seniors course by the same name, this two-session class will help hone your presentation skills. Many speakers and teachers assume that if they know their topic, they'll be successful. However, how well you engage your listeners and project competence and believably are much more important. This class will feature videotaping your presentation with individual feedback and coaching to help you take your personal teaching style to a higher level of success, no matter whether you're a novice or an “old hand” at teaching. Since the group size is limited, please don't register if you can't attend both sessions or if you've already taken the CFS course Speak Out, Speak Up.

3. Skill Talks – A day of workshops and networking for prospective, new and experienced College for Seniors instructors

Wednesday, March 8
9 a.m. – 2:30 p.m.

Skill Talks is a full-day of networking, learning about copyright laws learning workshops on topics like: teaching without the cover of visual aids; establishing a hands-on course; teaching through simulation and different learning styles; using the OLLI smart podium; classroom management; an overview for prospective instructors, and keeping guest speakers and participants on track.

Register for one, two or three upcoming learning opportunities by going to the registration form where additional information on each event is outlined.
