

An OLLI Panel Discussion

U.S. Foreign Policy: Possibilities, Perils and the Changing World Order

Wednesday, June 27, 9-11 a.m.

At the Reuter Center, Manheimer Room, UNC Asheville

The panel discussion is open to everyone

Jim Lenburg taught history and humanities at Mars Hill University for 33 years before retiring in 2006. His interests are United States foreign relations, China and modern American history. Jim serves on the College for Seniors History Curriculum Committee.

Sarah-Ann Smith is a former Foreign Service Officer with tours of duty at the U.S. Consulate in Hong Kong and in the State Department. She has a specialization in international relations, China and Southeast Asia.

Julie Snyder is a retired U.S. diplomat with more than 30 years of experience in the field of international trade and with assignments to U.S. embassies in Canada, Asia and Europe. Julie is a current board member of World Affairs Council of Western North Carolina.

Larry Wilson was former provost at UNC Asheville and provost of Zayed University in the United Arab Emirates from 2001 to 2013. Larry is on the College for Seniors Social Sciences Curriculum Committee.

Panel Moderator Bob Bond completed more than 25 short-term US AID volunteer projects in the sales and marketing of packaged farm products in 16 developing countries, including Russia and the former Soviet Union, East and West Africa, and Central America. Bob is a current board member of World Affairs Council of Western North Carolina.

