Who and what is The Arc and SADL: The Arc of Tri-Cities has been serving people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD), and their families, for more than 65 years. The Arc currently has 14 programs that serve nearly 200 people each week—more than 2,000 people with I/DD and their families.

One of challenges The Arc faces is Advocating (standing up) for the rights of people living with I/DD. But, just as the old saying goes about teaching a man to fish, so it goes with advocacy—thus, over the years, The Arc has helped start several groups in order to teach the members how to advocate for their needs and concerns. The latest of these groups is SADL (Self-Advocates Developing Leadership). The members learn public speaking, how to tell “their” story and how to speak out for their needs and concerns and the needs and concerns of those who cannot speak for themselves.

The members of SADL want to reach out to the local communities with evenings of fun and camaraderie, and would like to start a LEGO Club. If you would like someone from SADL to contact you regarding attending a meeting in the near future, Please fill in your contact information below and return to The Arc:
