

Andrew Curran, DCTHS Student Class of 2020

"I first discovered the Delaware County Technical School through my home school, and I knew I wanted to pursue a career in a trade, it looked like a great opportunity. What drew me to the heating and air conditioning field was there is a lot of problem solving and there is an abundance to learn not just the theory, but also the hands-on technique."

"My experience with the technical school and Mr. McCuen was very valuable to building a foundation for my future in the trade. The well balance of classroom and shop instruction help me learn some of the basics of the trade. My time in the shop also helped me work better with a group which I can foresee proving beneficial. I have one goal for the future, and it is simple, have a long fulfilling career as a commercial HVAC technician, something I can look back on with complete satisfaction and pride."
