

Day 8 Strategies

Living Lutheran: Dave Daubert's original book has become a go to standard for congregations wanting to explore renewal and begin the process of exploring and articulating who they are. An Augsburg bestseller, this is a great place to start.

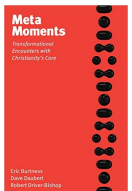

The Invitational Christian: Many mainline people love their church and find it meaningful and life giving. But the majority are still timid about sharing it and inviting others to join them. This fast book can help you change that and begin to see people bringing people with them into the life of the church.

Lutheran Trump Cards: Brian McLaren has said that Lutherans have a great theology but most Lutherans don't know it. A great way to help people learn Lutheran faith in clear, meaningful and dialogical ways. This book is being used in adult studies, middle school catechism classes, new members classes and more.

Seeing Through New Eyes: Looking for a way to help your folks make sense of mission in the local congregation. Applying the Great Commandment of Jesus to congregational life, this clear and easy book will explore a process that any congregation can both understand and put into practice!

MetaMoments: So many people have questions about the big block issues of the faith. Chapters explore the themes of Beginnings, Jesus, The Reign of God, Diversity's Challenge, Meaning and Purpose, and Why Church? Each chapter has scripture, questions and a prayer to make it perfect for small groups, council discussions, classes and more.

Discipleship Guides for Lutherans: Dietrich Bonhoeffer said, "Christianity without discipleship is always Christianity without Christ." Available in print versions or PDF with license, this series has 8 – 5 unit sessions on research based topics that will help people develop in their journey as a follower of Jesus.
