

Faced with a Myriad of Health Issues, Lifesprk Client Unlocks the 'Key' That Changes Everything

Healthcare costs typically skyrocket in the midst of a health crisis or when seniors ride what Lifesprk refers to as the 'roller coaster of health care crisis' - the frequent in-and-out of the hospital or emergency room, costing seniors in more ways than just financial. It also costs those who are caring for their older loved one in work/life balance, stress, and sometimes financially.

Lifesprk client, Jonathan, was very familiar with this scene when he experienced three different hospitalizations, several falls, and a myriad of health issues, which happened all at once, creating a safety concern for him being able to live by himself at home. Yet, he wanted to remain independent. After he fell again, his son urged him to explore options.

The key is getting proactive early, if you can, to identify not just health goals, but life goals as well. For example, do you want to age in place, volunteer, help with the house cleaning, making meals? Will you need to make home modifications to stay safe and, therefore, reduce the need for care after a surgery or hospitalization, or perhaps explore senior living options?
